

About This Issue's Authors

Volume 8, Number 1

Elena Bastidas, Ph.D., is a graduate in food and resource economics from the University of Florida and Associate professor in Conflict Studies at Nova Southeastern University.

bastidas@nova.edu.

Rachelle Bong A Jan, MSc., is a biodiversity conservation and sustainable development graduate from the University of the West Indies, Trinidad and Tobago and expert community facilitator with the firm Attune. chellepelle@hotmail.com.

John A. Fortunato, PhD, is Professor, School of Business, Area of Communication & Media Management at Fordham University. jfortunato@fordham.edu.

John Goedschalk, MBA, has a background business administration and serves as the executive director of the Suriname program for the non-for-profit organization Conservation International. jgoedschalk@conservation.org.

Lindsay Goossens, MA, has degrees in information and communication sciences from the Radboud University in the Netherlands and is a cross-communication expert worldwide.

lindsay@rgconsulting.pro.

Karin Lachmising is a cross-cultural communication specialist and expert community facilitator from Suriname with the firm Attune. info@karinlachmising.com.

S. Charles Malka, PhD, is professor of management at Sullivan University's Graduate School, Louisville KY. He can be reached at smalka@sullivan.edu.

Russ Mittermeier, PhD, is Chief Conservation Officer at the non-for-profit organization Global Wildlife Conservation and is regarded as a world leader in the field of biodiversity and tropical forest conservation. rmittermeier@globalwildlife.org.

Gwendolyn Smith, Ph.D. is a graduate from the Conflict Analysis and Resolution Program of Nova Southeastern University and is community development practitioner in South America.

gwen@pofteam.org.